bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.

bit.ly/use-naloxone

Updated 2023-04-17

If someone is experiencing a drug overdose:

Step 1: Call 911

…and wait with the person for help to arrive.

Step 2: Administer naloxone

It is better to give naloxone for a possible overdose than to wait or withhold it.

Persons experiencing an overdose may:

- Not wake up
- Breathe very slowly
- Feel cold to the touch
- Choke and cough
- Have bluish lips, nails, or skin

For general information, please call 211.